

Volume 1 | Issue 7
10 March 2022

Write-on Newsletter

Warm Welcome for Dublin Joint Winner

Share

Please forward this Newsletter to other people who are interested in writing.

Anne, James, Frank, Anne Murray, Nollaig and Richard

James Conway was greeted warmly on his visit to Galway where he and Frank were presented with Mugsy by Anne McManus. For many of us, it was a rare occasion to meet each other outside of the virtual techno environs of Zoom.

In fact, it was our first time to meet James in person. What a charming personality he has and what a marvellous raconteur he is! An afternoon of stories and laughs was enjoyed by all.

Contact

Writeon.galway@gmail.com

Zoom

Sessions every Thursday from 7pm – 9pm

Website

www.write-on.ie

WOWO 10 March 2022

(What's On Write-on this week)

Genre	Title	Author
Story	The Yellow Van	Nollaig O'Donnell
Novel	The Stained Collar	Seamus Keogh
Novel	Maggie O'Donnell	Geraldine Warren
Story	The Dancer	James Conway
Anthology 2023	Review of Contents	All members

New Publication – Sisters!

The first copies of SISTERS by Seamus Keogh were delivered to Jutta in Brandenburg, Germany on Monday afternoon. Over the next few days, members will be receiving their pre-ordered copies delivered to their doors. Copies will be delivered in the USA, Australia, UK, Germany, France, Spain, Japan, etc. Wonderful to see that Write-on is flexing its wings and that our books are available in so many parts of the world.

Membership is Open

Our members come from far and wide. As a result, Anthology 2023 (pub date September 22) will have a local, national, and international appeal.

Why not get involved with this exciting and progressive group of enthusiastic writers? Check out our website and watch the many presentations of our work there. Ask family members, friends, neighbours if they have any interest in writing or in publishing. There is always something of interest happening in Write-on. 'Til next time...